Objective	The overarching objective of the Mangalmay Institute of Management & Technology's certificate program on NISM Series VA Mutual Fund Distributors was to empower MBA students with a holistic and practical understanding of the mutual fund industry. The program sought to equip participants with comprehensive knowledge spanning the investment landscape, legal and regulatory frameworks, taxation, investor services, and the intricacies of mutual fund schemes. By integrating theoretical insights with hands-on experiences, including tutorial practices and simulations, the program aimed to prepare students for the dynamic challenges of mutual fund distribution. The specific goals included fostering a deep comprehension of risk and return dynamics, honing skills in portfolio construction and optimization, and refining effective communication with clients.
Content	Session 1: Mangalmay Institute of Management & Technology orchestrated an enriching 12-session workshop series tailored for MBA students, centering on NISM Series VA Mutual Fund Distributors. The inaugural session, which delved into the intricacies of the investment landscape, set the tone for a comprehensive exploration of the subject matter. Over the course of the workshop series, participants engaged in a multifaceted learning experience, gaining insights into the regulatory aspects, practical applications, and ethical considerations surrounding mutual fund distribution. The program not only equipped students with a profound understanding of NISM Series VA but also fostered a dynamic environment for interactive discussions and hands-on learning, reinforcing Mangalmay's commitment to providing holistic education and practical skills to aspiring business professionals.

Session2:

In the subsequent session of Mangalmai Institute of Management & Technology's 12-session workshop series on NISM Series VA Mutual Fund Distributors, the focus seamlessly transitioned to the pivotal topic of the "Concept and Role of Mutual Funds." This session provided MBA students with a comprehensive overview of the fundamental principles that underpin mutual funds, exploring their structure, functions, and significance in the broader financial landscape. Participants delved into the various types of mutual funds, risk management strategies employed within these investment vehicles, and the crucial role they play in wealth creation and portfolio diversification. The session aimed to demystify the intricacies of mutual funds, ensuring that participants not only grasped the theoretical foundations but also gained practical insights into the dynamic role these instruments play in the financial markets.

Session3:

Continuing the insightful journey of Mangalmai Institute of Management & Technology's workshop series on NISM Series VA Mutual Fund Distributors, the third session was dedicated to unraveling the "Legal Structure of Mutual Funds in India." This session provided MBA students with a thorough examination of the regulatory framework governing mutual funds, shedding light on the legal intricacies and compliance standards that shape their operation in the Indian financial landscape. Participants gained a nuanced understanding of the Securities and Exchange Board of India (SEBI) regulations, fund formation, and the legal obligations that fund managers must adhere to. The session emphasized the significance of legal compliance and transparency, ensuring that future mutual fund distributors are well-versed in the legal foundations that govern this vital component of the financial market. Through this comprehensive exploration, the workshop series aimed to equip participants with the knowledge and acumen necessary to navigate the legal landscape of mutual funds in India effectively.

Session 4:

In the fourth session of Mangalmay Institute of Management & Technology's workshop series on NISM Series VA Mutual Fund Distributors, the focus extended to a deep dive into the "Legal and Regulatory Framework" surrounding mutual funds. This session provided MBA students with an in-depth analysis of the legal landscape and regulatory intricacies governing the mutual fund industry in India. Participants gained insights into key regulations and guidelines set forth by regulatory bodies such as the Securities and Exchange Board of India (SEBI). The session emphasized the importance of compliance with legal requirements, risk management, and ethical considerations within the context of mutual fund distribution. By exploring the legal and regulatory dimensions, students were equipped with the essential knowledge to navigate the complexities of the financial industry responsibly and ethically, fostering a well-rounded understanding of the legal framework that underpins mutual fund operations in the country.

Session 5:

In the fifth session of the comprehensive workshop series organized by Mangalmay Institute of Management & Technology on NISM Series VA Mutual Fund Distributors, the spotlight shifted to the critical topic of "Scheme-Related Information." This session was designed to provide MBA students with a detailed exploration of the various mutual fund schemes available in the market. Participants delved into the intricacies of scheme classifications, their features, risk factors, and investment objectives. The session focused on empowering students to analyze and understand scheme-related documents, such as offer documents and key information memoranda, ensuring they could effectively communicate essential information to potential investors. By imparting knowledge on the diverse array of mutual fund schemes, this session aimed to equip participants with the skills necessary to guide investors in making informed decisions, aligning with the overarching objective of preparing future mutual fund distributors with a holistic understanding of the industry.

Session 6:

In the sixth session of Mangalmay Institute of Management & Technology's workshop series on NISM Series VA Mutual Fund Distributors, the spotlight shifted to the dynamic realm of "Fund Distribution and Channel Management Practices." This session provided MBA students with a comprehensive exploration of the strategies and practices involved in the distribution of mutual funds.

Participants gained insights into channel management, understanding how mutual funds reach investors through various distribution channels such as banks, financial advisors, and online platforms. The session delved into effective distribution strategies, highlighting the role of intermediaries and the importance of client relationships. By examining industry best practices, this session aimed to equip students with the skills necessary to navigate the intricacies of fund distribution, emphasizing the significance of ethical conduct and client-centric approaches in the ever-evolving landscape of mutual fund marketing and distribution.

Session 7:

This session provided MBA students with a detailed examination of the key financial metrics and pricing mechanisms that underpin mutual fund operations.

Participants delved into the concept of Net Asset Value, understanding its significance as a measure of the fund's per-unit market value. The session explored the factors influencing NAV and how it reflects the overall performance of a mutual fund. Additionally, students gained insights into the Total Expense Ratio, comprehending its role in evaluating the cost efficiency of a mutual fund.

The pricing of units, another critical aspect covered in the session, was thoroughly examined. Participants learned about the various methods used to price units and the implications of different pricing structures on investors.

By delving into these financial intricacies, this session aimed to provide students with a comprehensive understanding of the financial metrics and pricing dynamics that are fundamental to effective mutual fund distribution and management

Session 8:

In the eighth session of Mangalmay Institute of Management & Technology's workshop series on NISM Series VA Mutual Fund Distributors, the focus shifted towards the pivotal topics of "Taxation & Investor Services." This session aimed to equip MBA students with a comprehensive understanding of the tax implications associated with mutual fund investments and the essential investor services provided by fund distributors.

The taxation segment covered various aspects, including capital gains tax, dividend distribution tax, and the impact of taxation on different types of mutual fund schemes. Participants gained insights into how taxation can influence investment decisions and learned strategies to optimize tax efficiency for investors.

In the investor services segment, students explored the range of services offered to mutual fund investors, including account management, customer support, and financial advisory services. The session emphasized the importance of delivering excellent investor services to build trust and long-term relationships.

Session 9:

In the ninth session of Mangalmai Institute of Management & Technology's workshop series on NISM Series VA Mutual Fund Distributors, the focus shifted to a comprehensive exploration of "Risk, Returns, and Performance of Funds." This session aimed to provide MBA students with a deep understanding of the crucial factors influencing mutual fund investments.

The session delved into the concept of risk, elucidating the various types of risks associated with mutual funds, including market risk, credit risk, and liquidity risk. Participants gained insights into risk management strategies employed by fund managers to mitigate potential downsides.

The discussion on returns encompassed the assessment of historical performance, benchmarking, and the evaluation of various financial metrics. Students learned how to interpret fund performance in the context of risk and understand the relationship between risk and returns.

Session 10:

In the tenth session of Mangalmai Institute of Management & Technology's workshop series on NISM Series VA Mutual Fund Distributors, the focus honed in on "Mutual Fund Scheme Performance & Mutual Fund Scheme Selection." This session was designed to provide MBA students with a comprehensive understanding of how to evaluate and select mutual fund schemes effectively.

The session delved into the nuanced process of analyzing mutual fund scheme performance, covering key performance indicators, historical returns, and benchmark comparisons. Participants learned to interpret fund performance reports, enabling them to assess a scheme's consistency and suitability for investors.

The discussion on mutual fund scheme selection encompassed factors such as investment objectives, risk tolerance, and time horizon. Students gained insights into tailoring fund recommendations to meet the diverse needs of investors, aligning specific schemes with

	individual financial goals. Session 11&12: On sessions 11 and 12 of Mangalmay Institute of Management & Technology's workshop series on NISM Series VA Mutual Fund Distributors, the focus shifted to immersive "Tutorial Practices." These hands-on sessions were designed to provide MBA students with practical, real-world experience in applying the concepts and skills they had acquired throughout the workshop. Session 11 involved practical tutorials covering a range of topics, including the application of risk management strategies, the interpretation of financial statements related to mutual funds, and the utilization of software tools commonly employed in the mutual fund industry. Students had the opportunity to work through case studies, analyze market trends, and simulate scenarios that mutual fund distributors often encounter in their professional roles. Session 12 continued the tutorial practices with a focus on mutual fund portfolio construction and optimization. Participants engaged in exercises that required them to create diversified portfolios, aligning with different investment objectives and risk appetites. The session also included mock client interactions, allowing students to apply effective communication skills and address potential client queries related to mutual fund investments.
Outcome of Activity	The NISM Series VA certificate program, organized at MIMT for MNBA finance specialized students, proved highly beneficial in enhancing their knowledge and skills in the field of mutual fund distribution and investment advisory. Participants gained a comprehensive understanding of various aspects, including regulations, risk management, and ethical practices in the financial domain. The program equipped students with practical insights, preparing them for roles in the ever-evolving financial industry. As a result, graduates demonstrated increased proficiency in handling mutual fund-related transactions, compliance matters, and client interactions, making them well-prepared and competitive professionals in the finance sector. Overall, this certification program will open new door for better career opportunities for the students of finance specialization.
